Press Release – Lab-Bits.com

Monday 21st December 2015

We are pleased to finally announce that Lab-Bits is now finally open for business. Lab-bits.com is here as your one-stop marketplace for the sale, resale and auction of laboratory equipment. Aimed at laboratories or projects running on a budget, we believe that we have created the perfect online resource for all that a student, scientist, laboratory or project needs.

Our customer market is global and open 24/7. We have the capability of dealing with companies with a small workforce, to the major pharmaceutical company that employs thousands. There is a constant demand for laboratory spares and equipment for companies and universities that have to work to stringent budgets, and often need spares or replacement equipment the day before yesterday. This is the place to come to.

Items are free to list and upload on site once you register, and we only take a commission fee of 0.5% on all transactions above £100 (see terms and conditions for full details). Science and progress is all about the improvement of peoples lives. So, with that in mind, we are donating 10% of our overall net profits from this venture to the Great Ormond Street Childrens Hospital Charity in perpetuity.

Lab-bits.com. Make science count.

For all enquiries, please contact us via media@lab-bits.com. We look forward to hearing from you.
